

Investment Opportunities in Calcium Gluconate Manufacturing Industry.

Production of Calcium Gluconate.

The global market for calcium gluconate is likely to expand due to the escalation in the demand from different end-use industries especially from food and beverages and pharmaceutical sectors.

Introduction

Calcium gluconate, a mineral supplement, is produced by the neutralization of gluconic acid with calcium carbonate or lime. It is used for treating conditions resulting from calcium deficiencies. These conditions include: hypocalcemia related to hyperparathyroidism, hypocalcaemia tetany, and hypocalcaemia associated with rapid growth or pregnancy. Besides its use as an active ingredient in medicines, it is also widely used in numerous food products, where it serves the role of a nutrient supplement. Calcium gluconate is a source of calcium in different varieties of foods and beverage, including: soft drinks, milk, bottled waters, juices, soy products, dairy products, confectionery, and baked goods.

Calcium gluconate is extensively used in the treatment of Calcium deficiency, both for oral and parenteral administration. For Calcium therapy, Calcium gluconate is a well-established and most accepted drug in the medical field. Calcium in its ionic form has been shown to be an excellent therapeutic agent for the treatment of diseases caused and aggravated by deficiency of Calcium in the body. Calcium gluconate is being used as Tablets, intramuscular injections and as syrups. Calcium Gluconate forms a definite compound with Boric acid called Calcium Boro Gluconate which is more popular in the veterinary medical field. Calcium Boro Gluconate is used for the treatment of milk fever of milking cows.

Uses:

Calcium Gluconate Market

The global market for calcium gluconate is projected to grow as a result of the mounting demand from different end-use industries with the highest demand expected from pharmaceutical and food and beverages. Additionally, sunrise industries, such as nutraceuticals, have also largely stirred up demand for calcium gluconate globally. It is a major ingredient in various calcium-based health supplements.

The global market for calcium gluconate can be segmented broadly based on application, end use, as well as the form available. Based on the end use, the market for calcium gluconate can be further segmented into: emulsifier, bulking agent, and thickening agent. Similarly, on the basis of application, the calcium gluconate market can be further bifurcated into: food & beverages, pharmaceuticals, and nutraceuticals. The mineral supplement is available in the following forms on the commercial market: gum, powder, and liquid.

Calcium gluconate market has dominantly driven by its importance in medical treatment such as Calcium therapy. Its extensive use in injection and pharmaceutical medicines has increased the market demand. However, the various application markets with a significant demand for food and beverages are another major driver. Calcium gluconate is a biodegradable product, which has become additionally important for being environment-friendly. Despite its drivers, there are certain factors that affect the market growth such as the adverse health of calcium gluconate. Excessive consumption of calcium gluconate results in nausea, vomiting, constipation, decreased appetite and dry mouth that acts as a restraint for the market. Moreover, the different food regulatory constraints that hinder the product formulation and labeling requirements are also affecting the market.

Global calcium gluconate market is expected to grow owing to increasing demand from end-use industries such as pharmaceutical and food & beverages. Sunrise industries like the nutraceutical industry has also largely impacted the global calcium gluconate market, as it finds itself as major ingredient in multiple calcium based health supplements. Increase in the demand for health supplements from the health conscious consumers has largely driven this market globally. More than 75% of Americans are calcium deficient, and more than one in 10 Americans either has, or is at risk of developing, osteoporosis or other bone diseases.

Geographically, the global calcium gluconate market can be classified based on seven regions: Latin America, North America, Eastern Europe, Western Europe, Asia Pacific excluding Japan (APEJ), Japan, and the Middle East and Africa (MEA). The Asia Pacific region is projected to witness the highest growth thanks to increasing demand from the numerous end-use industries here. In addition, the growing government spending on infrastructure development will also help fuel the market's growth through the forecast period.
