Mexico

Introduction

Mexico, country of southern North America and the third largest country in Latin America, after Brazil and Argentina. Mexico is one of the chief economic and political forces in Latin America. It has a dynamic industrial base, vast mineral resources, a wide-ranging service sector, and the world's largest population of Spanish speakers—about two and a half times that of Spain or Colombia. Mexico is a land of extremes, with high mountains and deep canyons in the center of the country, sweeping deserts in the north, and dense rain forests in the south and east.

Agriculture in Mexico has been an important sector of the country's economy historically and politically even though now it accounts for a very small percentage of Mexico's GDP. Mexico is one of the cradles of human agriculture with the Mesoamericans developing domesticated plants such as maize, beans, tomatoes, squash, avocados, cacao, various kinds of spices, and more.

Mexico's main crops include grains such as corn and wheat, tropical fruits and various vegetables. Agricultural exports are important, especially coffee, tropical fruits and winter fruits and vegetables. Sixty percent of Mexico's agricultural exports go to the United States.

Mexico is another country rich in rock and mineral resources. It is rich in natural resources, like oil, silver, copper, and agricultural products. There is a great Trans-Mexican Volcanic Belt, which crosses the entire country at about the latitude of Mexico City. Volcano activity is responsible for many great rocks. At least sixty minerals were first discovered in Mexico. An estimated 1/3 of all silver that has been recovered from the Earth has come from Mexico.

Mexico is also a large producer of Agates. Though found in several Mexican states, the majority of well-known Mexican Agates come from the state of Chihuahua. Some of the many rocks from Mexico include: Crown of Silver Psilomelane, Crazy Lace Agate, Laguna Agate, Luna Agate, Wave Dolomite, Rainbow Obsidian, Spiderweb Obsidian, Silver Sheen and Gold Sheen Obsidian, Mahogany Obsidian, Selenite, Fire Agate and some of the most valuable Amethyst in the world. Mexico also mines significant quantities of lead and zinc.

The silver mines have their special place in Mexican mining history as well as a major role in the development of the history of the New World.

The list of outstanding minerals from this country includes collector favorites listed here in no particular order: danburite, opal, grossular, apatite, rhodochrosite, topaz and other gemstones, legrandite, creedite, wulfenite, adamite (the best in the world), acanthite, pyrargyrite, boleite, silver, polybasite, stephanite and other silver minerals, fluorite, amethyst (the most expensive amethyst in the world), pyrrhotite, galena, rosasite, smithsonite, goethite, calcite (especially onyx), hematite, pyrite, hemimorphite, paradamite, mimetite, anhydrite crystals, cumengite, stibiconite, agate, gypsum (especially from Cave-of-the-Swords), cassiterite, scorodite, arsenopyrite, barite, etc.

There are over 22 million people living in Mexico City and a wealth of business hubs offer accounting and taxation, visa and legal services. As a major financial centre, Mexico City now has a thriving venture capital scene, and organizations like the Mexican Association of Venture Capital and Private Equity (MEXCAP) and the National Institute of Entrepreneurship (INADEM) have helped support businesses get off the ground.

Mexico has had an amazing growth in the last years. Apart from having a strategic geographic location, the country offers competitive costs to service international markets and a young highly-skilled human capital. Nowadays Mexican background has become certainly attractive to foreign investors due to the nation's openness to global economy and the facilities given to start a business in its territory. The demand of clean energy, such as wind, solar, nuclear, geothermal and hydropowered one, is expected to increase in 2024; nevertheless, regarding to the Law on Renewable Energy Sources, it has to become 35% of the total production in Mexico before then.
